The Persians of Silis

Parsian Silis Company, with years of successful presence in the field of industry and mining in the country, is known as an exemplary unit for processing various mineral materials, especially silica. Currently, this company is one of the main suppliers of silica in the country. It is worth mentioning that the products of this company are produced and supplied based on the best quality silica extraction rock available in the country, unlike other provinces that use sedimentary silica rock, and by using machines equipped with magnets and strong filtration with high purity in various sizes and meshes according to the type of use of different industries. The company's mineral products include: silica, feldspar, dolomite, calcium carbonate, micronized silica, microsilica, anthracite, etc.
